

IMMEDIATE RELEASE

February 16, 1956

James C. Hagerty, Press Secretary to the President

THE WHITE HOUSE

The President has signed an Executive Order providing for the establishment of a National Defense Executive Reserve to be composed of persons selected and trained for employment in executive positions in the Federal Government during periods of emergency. The creation of a civilian reserve of this kind was authorized by section 8 of the 1955 amendments of the Defense Production Act of 1950.

The Order requires the Director of the Office of Defense Mobilization to institute and administer the program and coordinate the establishment of Executive Reserve units in various Federal agencies.

Under the Order, agencies designated by the ODM Director would have authority to select persons from private life and from the Government to serve in such units. Selection and training of the executive reservist would be carried out in accordance with regulations and standards set up by ODM.

Activities of persons by reason of their designation as reservists under the order are not to include action or advice on any matter pending before an agency. The order exempts reservists from the conflict of interest statutes only with respect to their mobilization training activities.

The act - section 710(e) of the Defense Production Act, as amended, - permits members of the executive reserve who are not full-time Government employees to receive transportation and not to exceed $15 per diem in lieu of subsistence while away from their homes or regular places of business for the purpose of participating in the executive reserve training program.
